

View unanswered posts • View active topics

Creation Makes Creator

Moderator: Dan~

POSTREPLY Search this topic... Search

27 posts • Page 1 of 2 • 1 2

daniel j lavender

Posts: 69
Joined: Tue Jul 25, 2023 4:54 am
Location: Tennessee

Creation Makes Creator

by daniel j lavender » Sat Jul 29, 2023 3:49 am

Let's concede God created the world, or God created creation. Creation would be as significant as God. Creation would be as significant as the creator. Creation created God. Creation created the creator. Without creation there is no creator. Creation and creator are, in this sense, on the same level. Creation and creator are. Further, God being the creator, God would only be part of existence, existence including both creator and creation. Therefore, existence as a whole would encompass, would exceed God or would encompass and exceed a creator. A creator cannot be without creation. A creator makes creation, a creation makes a creator.

Existence Is Infinite

QUOTE

daniel j lavender

Posts: 69
Joined: Tue Jul 25, 2023 4:54 am
Location: Tennessee

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by daniel j lavender » Sat Jul 29, 2023 4:22 am

Creator is creation and creation is creator. Creator and creation are the same. Creator is. Creation is. Creator and creation are. Is what? Are what? Existence. All is existence. All that is existence.

Existence Is Infinite

QUOTE

Dan~

ILP Legend
Posts: 11447
Joined: Thu Nov 24, 2005 8:14 am
Location: Canada Alberta

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Dan~ » Sat Jul 29, 2023 11:03 am

On the transcendental level of reality, things like creation, first cause, eternity, etc.
Are a lower level of reality.

I like <http://www.accuradio.com>, internet radio.

<https://dannerz.itch.io> -- a new and minimal website now hosting my free game projects.

Truth is based in sensing, in vision. And we can only see when we are alive.

QUOTE

Arcturus Descending

Consciousness Seeker

Posts: 16217
Joined: Sat Sep 06, 2008 5:15 pm
Location: A state of unknowning

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Arcturus Descending » Mon Jul 31, 2023 4:27 pm

daniel j lavender wrote:

Let's concede God created the world, or God created creation. Creation would be as significant as God. Creation would be as significant as the creator. Creation created God. Creation created the creator. Without creation there is no creator. Creation and creator are, in this sense, on the same level. Creation and creator are. Further, God being the creator, God would only be part of existence, existence including both creator and creation. Therefore, existence as a whole would encompass, would exceed God or would encompass and exceed a creator. A creator cannot be without creation. A creator makes creation, a creation makes a creator.

QUOTE

So, what WOULD you call God before God actually created something?

Would God be any less than God before the creation of the Universe and everything in it albeit we would have no knowledge of this God beforehand?

“

Creation would be as significant as God.

The word significant as defined by Google dictionary means:

1. sufficiently great or important to be worthy of attention; noteworthy.

a significant increase in sales

2.

having a particular meaning; indicative of something.

in times of stress her dreams seemed to her especially significant

Somehow I do not see your words there - do not intuit them.

Yes, the Universe and its evolution holds such significance and meaning far beyond what we can ever know BUT being equal to its Creator -- THAT is where I believe we need to practice a little humility. 😊

Anyone, anything, capable of creating this Universe is far beyond being equal with its creations. The word equal cannot even exist where God is concerned in relation to God's creations.

As significant as creation is, it cannot hold a candle to its Origin.

If you can't fly, then run.
If you can't run, then walk.
If you can't walk, then crawl,
but whatever you do, you have to
keep moving forward.

Martin Luther King.

He who binds to himself a joy
Does the winged life destroy
He who kisses the joy as it flies
Lives in eternity's sunrise

William Blake

tears

MagsJ
The Londonist: a chic geek

Posts: 27284
Joined: Wed Nov 01, 2006 2:59 pm
Location: Suryaloka / LDN Town

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by MagsJ » Mon Jul 31, 2023 4:39 pm

"QUOTE

—
Re. the op.. if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator? 😊

A creator god, or.. something else?

The possibility of anything we can imagine existing is endless and infinite.. ~MagsJ

I haven't got the time to spend the time reading something that is telling me nothing, as I will never be able to get back that time, and I may need it for something important at some point in time.. Huh? ~MagsJ

You're suggestions and I just simply don't mix.. like oil on water, or a very bad DJ ~MagsJ

Examine what is said, not him who speaks ~Arab proverb

æs Sanātana Dharma Pali: the eternal way ~it should not be rigid, but inclusive of the best of all knowledge for the sake of Rta.. which is endless.

Arcturus Descending
Consciousness Seeker

Posts: 16217
Joined: Sat Sep 06, 2008 5:15 pm
Location: A state of unknowning

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Arcturus Descending » Mon Jul 31, 2023 5:16 pm

"QUOTE

“ MagsJ wrote:

—
Re. the op.. if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator? 😊

A creator god, or.. something else?

But MagsJ - would you not want to know where you came from...would you not wonder about your beginnings -- your REAL beginnings?

Would you not want answers to your Who, What, Where, When, How and Why?

I suppose that for many, it is enough that we are here but for others -- we absolutely need to know what the canvas looked like before the Painter started to paint and who the Painter IS.

If you can't fly, then run.
If you can't run, then walk.
If you can't walk, then crawl,
but whatever you do, you have to
keep moving forward.

Martin Luther King.

He who binds to himself a joy
Does the winged life destroy
He who kisses the joy as it flies
Lives in eternity's sunrise

William Blake

tears

MagsJ
The Londonist: a chic geek

Posts: 27284
Joined: Wed Nov 01, 2006 2:59 pm
Location: Suryaloka / LDN Town

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by MagsJ » Mon Jul 31, 2023 5:33 pm

"QUOTE

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

But MagsJ - would you not want to know where you came from...would you not wonder about your beginnings -- your REAL beginnings?

Would you not want answers to your Who, What, Where, When, How and Why?

I suppose that for many, it is enough that we are here but for others -- we absolutely need to know what the canvas looked like before the Painter started to paint and who the Painter IS.

That is not what I was inferring, though.. how on Earth did you get that^ from what I said? I asked a very simple and specific question, is all - I think that you conflated my question, with your mind. 😊

I will await the op's response to my inquiry, before I contribute further..

The possibility of anything we can imagine existing is endless and infinite.. ~MagsJ

I haven't got the time to spend the time reading something that is telling me nothing, as I will never be able to get back that time, and I may need it for something important at some point in time.. Huh? ~MagsJ

You're suggestions and I just simply don't mix.. like oil on water, or a very bad DJ ~MagsJ

Examine what is said, not him who speaks ~Arab proverb

æs Sanātana Dharma Pali: the eternal way ~it should not be rigid, but inclusive of the best of all knowledge for the sake of Rta.. which is endless.

Arcturus Descending

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Arcturus Descending » Mon Jul 31, 2023 6:12 pm

"QUOTE

Obviously I must have conflated your question with my mind.

That is just one of the ways in which my mind works. 😊

By "creation" I took this to ALSO mean we human beings.

Consciousness Seeker

Posts: 16217
Joined: Sat Sep 06, 2008 5:15 pm
Location: A state of unknowing

Your question was: if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator?

As far as I am concerned, I did give you one legitimate answer as to WHY. Others might have a different one. Everything is in the "eyes of the beholder". I took what I thought to be the "direct" path to answer your question.

I suppose I will just wait on others to answer your question in a far simpler way.

If you can't fly, then run.
If you can't run, then walk.
If you can't walk, then crawl,
but whatever you do, you have to
keep moving forward.

Martin Luther King.

He who binds to himself a joy
Does the winged life destroy
He who kisses the joy as it flies
Lives in eternity's sunrise

William Blake

tears

Meno_
The Invisible One

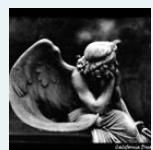

Posts: 16685
Joined: Tue Dec 08, 2015 2:39 am
Location: Mysterium Tremendum

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Meno_ » Mon Jul 31, 2023 6:25 pm

“QUOTE

This creation-creator parallel in the beginning was spoken in an analogic language, then the dialogue

Mags3
The Londonist: a chic geek

Posts: 27284
Joined: Wed Nov 01, 2006 2:59 pm
Location: Suryaloka / LDN Town

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Mags3 » Tue Aug 01, 2023 12:54 am

“QUOTE

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:
Obviously I must have conflated your question with my mind.
That is just one of the ways in which my mind works. 😊

By "creation" I took this to ALSO mean we human beings.

Your question was: if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator?

Ahhhhh, no.. no trichotomies/quichotomies/etc. involved in my inquiry, just the creation / creator dichotomy.

“ As far as I am concerned, I did give you one legitimate answer as to WHY. Others might have a different one. Everything is in the "eyes of the beholder". I took what I thought to be the "direct" path to answer your question.

Arc said: "I suppose that for many, it is enough that we are here but for others -- we absolutely need to know what the canvas looked like before the Painter started to paint and who the Painter IS."

..I still don't get how you arrived at that^ premise, from what I had said. 😊

“ I suppose I will just wait on others to answer your question in a far simpler way.

My issue was not with that^ but with how you arrived at the 'human element' being included in/added to, the equation?

The possibility of anything we can imagine existing is endless and infinite.. ~Mags]

I haven't got the time to spend the time reading something that is telling me nothing, as I will never be able to get back that time, and I may need it for something important at some point in time.. Huh? ~Mags]

You're suggestions and I just simply don't mix.. like oil on water, or a very bad DJ ~Mags]

Examine what is said, not him who speaks ~Arab proverb

aes Sanātana Dharma Pali: the eternal way ~it should not be rigid, but inclusive of the best of all knowledge for the sake of Rta.. which is endless.

Lorikeet
Philosopher

Posts: 4427
Joined: Thu Dec 03, 2020 9:08 pm

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Lorikeet » Tue Aug 01, 2023 2:18 am

“QUOTE

Funny, when men speak of creating it is about using preexisting elements....not non-existence.

There was no creation because there was no non-existence.

To every man upon this earth
Death cometh soon or late.
And how can man die better
Than facing fearful odds,
For the ashes of his fathers,
And the temples of his gods
Thomas Babington Macaulay, Lays of Ancient Rome

daniel j lavender

Posts: 69
Joined: Tue Jul 25, 2023 4:54 am
Location: Tennessee

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by daniel j lavender » Tue Aug 01, 2023 2:03 pm

“QUOTE

“ Lorikeet wrote:
Funny, when men speak of creating it is about using preexisting elements....not non-existence.

There was no creation because there was no non-existence.

Correct.

Existence always is. Things are created from other things.

Existence Is Infinite

daniel j lavender

Posts: 69
Joined: Tue Jul 25, 2023 4:54 am
Location: Tennessee

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by daniel j lavender » Tue Aug 01, 2023 2:08 pm

QUOTE

“ MagsJ wrote:

—
Re. the op.. if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator? 🤔
A creator god, or.. something else?

Time, "then", "before" are inappropriate terms here. See reply below.

Existence Is Infinite

daniel j lavender

Posts: 69
Joined: Tue Jul 25, 2023 4:54 am
Location: Tennessee

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by daniel j lavender » Tue Aug 01, 2023 3:07 pm

QUOTE

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

So, what WOULD you call God before God actually created something?
Would God be any less than God before the creation of the Universe and everything in it albeit we would have no knowledge of this God beforehand?

There are various ways to approach this.

When one refers to something one often refers to the fullness of that thing. One often refers to all of that particular thing.

When one refers to God one refers to the fullness of God. The full extent of God including the associated act of creation. Whether the act occurred or will occur the act is included as one is referring to the fullness of God.

God would be creator, regardless before or after, as the fullness of God is being acknowledged.

Alternative approach dealing with time and sequencing:

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

So, what WOULD you call God before God actually created something?

Being. Existence.

That's all that is. That's all any thing is.

These conceptions of creator and creation are complexities of our making. Stories, narratives created in the process of sorting out our circumstances as conscious beings.

Would there be a before deity created? Did deity create just once? Considering deity is eternal could deity not create numerous times? Indefinitely?

Think about the statement "before God". Would there be before God? Would there be before being? Isn't God eternal? Timeless?

Referring to Biblical passage, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth" (Genesis 1:1). "In the beginning" refers to the heaven relative to the earth. The beginning of the heaven and the earth, that particular creation, not the beginning of existence. In other words there could be other creations, indefinitely.

One could also view it this way. Existence transcends time. Deity transcends time. Time, as we know it, is a contrivance. A tool, a measurement for our purposes relevant on our level of interaction. As stated existence transcends time, existence is beyond time. There would be no "before" in the sense of deity creating. There would be no sequence of events, no order of time as we perceive it.

Time, as we know it, is calculated by the rotation of earth and the orbit of earth around the sun. Alter the system, rearrange that arrangement and that structure of time vanishes, it is destroyed. In other words time is flimsy, time is a contrivance.

Deity transcends time. As deity creates deity creates. It is beyond framework of time. It is beyond structured sequence and measurement. It just is. Time and other frameworks come into play as they concern our particular level of interaction.

Creator and creation are aspects of the same. Being.

Being simply is. Existence simply is. These conceptions of creator and creation are narratives. Complexities of our making.

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
Creation would be as significant as God.

The word significant as defined by Google dictionary means:

1.
sufficiently great or important to be worthy of attention; noteworthy.
"a significant increase in sales"
2.
having a particular meaning; indicative of something.
"in times of stress her dreams seemed to her especially significant"

Somehow I do not see your words there - do not intuit them.

1. "sufficiently great or important"

This seems applicable as, according to Biblical scripture, God gave his only son for the world, for creation, for mankind (John 3:16). That suggests something fairly important or fairly significant.

2. "indicative of something"

This point also applies as creation is indicative of a creator. As stated, creation makes a creator.

I believe both terms are satisfied.

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

Yes, the Universe and its evolution holds such significance and meaning far beyond what we can ever know BUT being equal to its Creator -- THAT is where I believe we need to practice a little humility. 😊

Anyone, anything, capable of creating this Universe is far beyond being equal with its creations. The word equal cannot even exist where God is concerned in relation to God's creations.

As significant as creation is, it cannot hold a candle to its Origin.

“Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God.” (Philippians 2:5-6)

We are creators. Our creativity, our consciousness as humans is a reflection of the creativity and consciousness of deity.

Existence Is Infinite

“QUOTE

Arcturus Descending
Consciousness Seeker

Posts: 16217
Joined: Sat Sep 06, 2008 5:15 pm
Location: A state of unknowing

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Arcturus Descending » Tue Aug 01, 2023 4:32 pm

MagsJ

“QUOTE

“ Arc said: “I suppose that for many, it is enough that we are here but for others -- we absolutely need to know what the canvas looked like before the Painter started to paint and who the Painter IS.”

..I still don't get how you arrived at that* premise, from what I had said. 😊

“

My issue was not with that* but with how you arrived at the 'human element' being included in/added to, the equation?

Again , Your question was: if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator?

There being that part of "creation" which stands for us humans beings, it is not so much about having to actually create a creator but to know the creator, to question and to wonder and to imagine this creator.

Perhaps a better word to have used, would not have been "create" a creator, but "re-create" a creator.

Have you ever sat outside looking up at the sky and suddenly you began to reflect on what and who God REALLY is - not as what you have been told but about who this God really is?

If you can't fly, then run.
If you can't run, then walk.
If you can't walk, then crawl,
but whatever you do, you have to
keep moving forward.

Martin Luther King.

He who binds to himself a joy
Does the winged life destroy
He who kisses the joy as it flies
Lives in eternity's sunrise

William Blake

tears

“QUOTE

Arcturus Descending
Consciousness Seeker

Posts: 16217
Joined: Sat Sep 06, 2008 5:15 pm
Location: A state of unknowing

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Arcturus Descending » Tue Aug 01, 2023 5:56 pm

daniel j lavender

“QUOTE

“ Would God be any less than God before the creation of the Universe and everything in it albeit we would have no knowledge of this God beforehand?

I am tempted to say "how can we know this" but another part of me feels there could be no difference.

“ When one refers to God one refers to the fullness of God. The full extent of God including the associated act of creation. Whether the act occurred or will occur the act is included as one is referring to the fullness of God.

God would be creator, regardless before or after, as the fullness of God is being acknowledged.

As in "God the Same Yesterday Today and Tomorrow"

“ Arcturus Descending So, what WOULD you call God before God actually created something?

Being. Existence.

That's all that is. That's all any thing is.

I think that those two words put us on the same level as God - weare being, we are existence.

“ Would there be a before deity created?

No, since God is supposedly eternal.

“ Did deity create just once? Considering deity is eternal could deity not create numerous times? Indefinitely?

How could we possibly know the answer to that?

“

Referring to Biblical passage, “In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth” (Genesis 1:1). “In the beginning” refers to the heaven relative to the earth. The beginning of the heaven and the earth, that particular creation, not the beginning of existence. In other words there could be other creations, indefinitely.

Yes, there could be but I do not think that science has found them yet.
What do you mean by “indefinitely?” “Ad continuum”...

“

One could also view it this way. Existence transcends time. Deity transcends time. Time, as we know it, is a contrivance. A tool, a measurement for our purposes relevant on our level of interaction. As stated existence transcends time, existence is beyond time. There would be no “before” in the sense of deity creating. There would be no sequence of events, no order of time as we perceive it.

Can you even imagine what that would look like, feel like? (not much of an answer for you, is it?)

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
Creation would be as significant as God.

The word significant as defined by Google dictionary means:

1. sufficiently great or important to be worthy of attention; noteworthy.
“a significant increase in sales”
2. having a particular meaning; indicative of something.
“in times of stress her dreams seemed to her especially significant”

Somehow I do not see your words there - do not intuit them.

“

1. “sufficiently great or important”

This seems applicable as, according to Biblical scripture, God gave his only son for the world, for creation, for mankind (John 3:16). That suggests something fairly important or fairly significant.

Much more so than fairly.

“

2. “indicative of something”

This point also applies as creation is indicative of a creator. As stated, creation makes a creator.

I believe both terms are satisfied.

But...

“

daniel j lavender wrote:
Creation would be as significant as God.

My problem was with the above though. You seem to be placing God and creation on the same level.

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

Yes, the Universe and its evolution holds such significance and meaning far beyond what we can ever know BUT being equal to its Creator -- THAT is where I believe we need to practice a little humility. 😊

Anyone, anything, capable of creating this Universe is far beyond being equal with its creations. The word equal cannot even exist where God is concerned in relation to God's creations.

As significant as creation is, it cannot hold a candle to its Origin.

“

“Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God.” (Philippians 2:5-6)

I may be wrong here in what you are saying, but you seem to be saying that we can think of ourselves as being equal to God. That is not what Paul was saying. He was actually speaking of humility there where our relationships are concerned. You do not get the full message and meaning by simply putting in a small slice of something and giving it your own meaning.

5 In your relationships with one another, have the same mindset as Christ Jesus:

6 Who, being in very nature[a] God,
did not consider equality with God something to be used to his own advantage;
7 rather, he made himself nothing
by taking the very nature[b] of a servant,
being made in human likeness.
8 And being found in appearance as a man,
he humbled himself
by becoming obedient to death—
even death on a cross!

If you can't fly, then run.
If you can't run, then walk.
If you can't walk, then crawl,
but whatever you do, you have to
keep moving forward.

Martin Luther King.

He who binds to himself a joy
Does the winged life destroy
He who kisses the joy as it flies
Lives in eternity's sunrise

William Blake

tears

MagsJ
The Londonist: a chic geek

Posts: 27284
Joined: Wed Nov 01, 2006 2:59 pm
Location: Suryaloka / LDN Town

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by MagsJ » Tue Aug 01, 2023 6:20 pm

“QUOTE

““ Arcurus Descending wrote:
MagsJ

““ Arc said: “I suppose that for many, it is enough that we are here but for others -- we absolutely need to know what the canvas looked like before the Painter started to paint and who the Painter IS.”

..I still don't get how you arrived at that^ premise, from what I had said. 😊

““ My issue was not with that^ but with how you arrived at the 'human element' being included in/added to, the equation?

Again, Your question was: if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator?

There being that part of "creation" which stands for us humans beings, it is not so much about having to actually create a creator but to know the creator, to question and to wonder and to imagine this creator.

Those^ are your thoughts not mine.. I asked something specific, that I wanted an answer to.. nothing more or less, than that.

““ Perhaps a better word to have used, would not have been "create" a creator, but "re-create" a creator.

Nope.. that's definitely not the word I would have [preferred to] use(d), but you might have.. 😊

I said exactly what I meant to say, because that was precisely what I wanted an answer to.. without any conflation marring the exchange.

““ Have you ever sat outside looking up at the sky and suddenly you began to reflect on what and who God REALLY is - not as what you have been told but about who this God really is?

I reflect on many and much, things.. currently stilling the mind, to 'think and do' with laser-like precision.. so conflation, be damned. 😊

I do not want to comfort myself with the notion that existence has always been, but prefer to think about how that could be so.. my prerogative.

The possibility of anything we can imagine existing is endless and infinite.. ~MagsJ

I haven't got the time to spend the time reading something that is telling me nothing, as I will never be able to get back that time, and I may need it for something important at some point in time.. Huh? ~MagsJ

You're suggestions and I just simply don't mix.. like oil on water, or a very bad DJ ~MagsJ

Examine what is said, not him who speaks ~Arab proverb

aeśa Sanātana Dharma Pali: the eternal way ~it should not be rigid, but inclusive of the best of all knowledge for the sake of Rta.. which is endless.

MagsJ
The Londonist: a chic geek

Posts: 27284
Joined: Wed Nov 01, 2006 2:59 pm
Location: Suryaloka / LDN Town

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by MagsJ » Tue Aug 01, 2023 7:10 pm

“QUOTE

““ daniel j lavender wrote:

““ MagsJ wrote:
Re. the op.. if creation already existed, why would it then have to create a creator? 😊

A creator god, or.. something else?

Time, “then”, “before” are inappropriate terms here. See reply below.

Creator/creation, an ouroboros of perpetuity.. a Oneness.

..but don't quote me on that.. coz I wasn't there at the time. ↗😊↗

I like the fact that, at times, my mind can wander to that thought and get lost in it/lost in the parambulations of the thought-processes of its ultimate premise.

Last edited by MagsJ on Tue Aug 01, 2023 7:59 pm, edited 1 time in total.

The possibility of anything we can imagine existing is endless and infinite.. ~MagsJ

I haven't got the time to spend the time reading something that is telling me nothing, as I will never be able to get back that time, and I may need it for something important at some point in time.. Huh? ~MagsJ

You're suggestions and I just simply don't mix.. like oil on water, or a very bad DJ ~MagsJ

Examine what is said, not him who speaks ~Arab proverb

daniel j lavender

Posts: 69
Joined: Tue Jul 25, 2023 4:54 am
Location: Tennessee

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by daniel j lavender » Tue Aug 01, 2023 7:29 pm

QUOTE

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
Creation would be as significant as God.

My problem was with the above though. You seem to be placing God and creation on the same level.

Without creation there is no creator.

Both creator and creation are. In that sense they are on the same level. As originally stated.

“ Arcturus Descending wrote:

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
“Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God.” (Philippians 2:5-6)

I may be wrong here in what you are saying, but you seem to be saying that we can think of ourselves as being equal to God. That is not what Paul was saying. He was actually speaking of humility there where our relationships are concerned. You do not get the full message and meaning by simply putting in a small slice of something and giving it your own meaning.

5 In your relationships with one another, have the same mindset as Christ Jesus:

6 Who, being in very nature[a] God,
did not consider equality with God something to be used to his own advantage;
7 rather, he made himself nothing
by taking the very nature[b] of a servant,
being made in human likeness.
8 And being found in appearance as a man,
he humbled himself
by becoming obedient to death—
even death on a cross!

Note in the Philippians passage Jesus does not deny equality with God.

Equality is not denied, rather it is viewed as something not to be taken advantage of.

Equality is acknowledged as humility is acknowledged.

Likewise with the following passage. Examine the context:

“Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also that God was his Father, making himself equal with God.” (John 5:18)

(Further context: “19 Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise. 20 For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel. 21 For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom he will.”)

In context Jesus does acknowledge God's ability. However Jesus does not explicitly deny equality with God. It is accepted with humility. Additional similarities between God and Jesus are expressed, reinforcing the idea of equality.

In the above passage, John 5:18, God is acknowledged as the Father. Equality is acknowledged with Jesus, the child of God. Is God not the Father of all? So would that trait not be implied of all children? It is not a claim of arrogance. It is a declaration of respect, of connection and honor. As it is suggested, in our relations we should exercise humility. Especially in relation with God.

Equality with God as children of God is further suggested with Adam and Eve in the book of Genesis: “And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil” (Genesis 3:22). That is a direct declaration from God.

Apostles, scripture, God commands the same mind as Christ. The mind of equality, the mind of clarity and the mind of humility. The same humility is expected of us just as the same equality is bestowed upon us. We are consciousness. We are creators. We are reflections of Deity.

Existence Is Infinite

gib
resident exorcist

Posts: 9371
Joined: Sat May 27, 2006 10:25 pm
Location: in your mom

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by gib » Wed Aug 02, 2023 12:40 am

QUOTE

“ daniel j lavender wrote:

Let's concede God created the world, or God created creation. Creation would be as significant as God. Creation would be as significant as the creator.

It would? I've created a lot of things in my life, but I wouldn't say they're all as significant as me. I've created a shit while sitting on the can. Is the shit as significant as me?

“ daniel j lavender wrote:

Creation created God. Creation created the creator. Without creation there is no creator.

Well, now you're reversing the order of events, which makes even less sense. Like the shit I created, one's creations do not create one's self.

“ daniel j lavender wrote:

Creation and creator are, in this sense, on the same level. Creation and creator are.

Yes, creation and creator are, but are they one and the same? I am not yet convinced.

“ daniel j lavender wrote:

Further, God being the creator, God would only be part of existence; Yes, existence including both creator and creation. Yes. Therefore, existence as a whole would encompass, would exceed God or would encompass and exceed a creator. Would it? A creator cannot be without creation. By definition! A creator makes creation, a creation makes a creator.

I suppose you could say a creation makes one into a creator, but not that a creation brings the creator into existence. I also take issue with your assertion that creator and creation together exceed either one on their own. Exceed in what sense? In the sheer number of things in existence? Sure. But in moral superiority? In simplicity? In proof of either's existence? There are a number of ways in which the two together do not exceed either on their own.

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
Creator is creation and creation is creator. Creator and creation are the same. Creator is. Creation is. Creator and creation are. Is what? Are what? Existence. All is existence. All that is is existence.

Well, this point makes sense, and I suspect is what you are driving at. Yes, existence would have to be before there even is a creator, and therefore if we're saying creation just is existence (all of existence), then it makes no sense to say the creator comes before the creation. This is the infamous infinite regress of creator and creation. If what you're trying to explain is existence itself, it seems you are caught in a catch-22 of asserting a creator (or creation event) that depends on creation already being there just in order for it to be.

Nothing wrong with saying God created the universe, just so long as "the universe" is not understood as "all of existence".

My thoughts | My art | My music | My poetry

We have a robust functioning democracy and public protests are an important part of making sure Canadians are getting messages out there and highlighting how they feel about various issues, but using protests to demand changes to public policy is something that I think is worrisome.

- Justin Trudeau

I'm out in the public eye and I take my personal hygiene very seriously. As I said, I felt like I needed to have a hair cut. I'm not able to do that myself so I got a hair cut.
- Chicago mayor Lori Lightfoot when asked why she went to a hair salon during her own stay-at-home covid mandates

The best way to get something done... if you, if you hold near and dear to you, that you, uh... um, like to be able to... anyway.
- Joe Biden

gib
resident exorcist

Posts: 9371
Joined: Sat May 27, 2006 10:25 pm
Location: in your mom

Re: Creation Makes Creator

 by gib » Wed Aug 02, 2023 1:06 am

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
One could also view it this way. Existence transcends time. Deity transcends time. Time, as we know it, is a contrivance. A tool, a measurement for our purposes relevant on our level of interaction. As stated existence transcends time, existence is beyond time. There would be no "before" in the sense of deity creating. There would be no sequence of events, no order of time as we perceive it.

But we should note that in this context, even "creation" takes on a whole other meaning. "Creation", the word, implies time--it implies that something is brought into existence--a before when it didn't exist and an after when it did--but that doesn't mean we can't infer an equivalent in the timeless context. In the timeless context, creation becomes dependence--that is, "creation" depends on the "creator" for its existence. The creator doesn't go through a process by which the creation is brought into being, but rather the roots of the creation's existence can be traced back to the creator--like the foundations of a building can be traced back to the initial concrete that was poured in order to erect the building--both coexisting at the same time ("timeless" in a sense)--but definitely an order by which the building and the foundation are related by dependence (the building depending on the foundation). So while there is no "before" and "after" in a timeless context, there can still be an order of dependencies, a relation between that which must exist in order for something else to exist and that something else.

My thoughts | My art | My music | My poetry

We have a robust functioning democracy and public protests are an important part of making sure Canadians are getting messages out there and highlighting how they feel about various issues, but using protests to demand changes to public policy is something that I think is worrisome.
- Justin Trudeau

I'm out in the public eye and I take my personal hygiene very seriously. As I said, I felt like I needed to have a hair cut. I'm not able to do that myself so I got a hair cut.
- Chicago mayor Lori Lightfoot when asked why she went to a hair salon during her own stay-at-home covid mandates

The best way to get something done... if you, if you hold near and dear to you, that you, uh... um, like to be able to... anyway.
- Joe Biden

daniel j lavender

Posts: 69
Joined: Tue Jul 25, 2023 4:54 am
Location: Tennessee

Re: Creation Makes Creator

 by daniel j lavender » Wed Aug 02, 2023 6:51 am

“ gib wrote:

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
Let's concede God created the world, or God created creation. Creation would be as significant as God. Creation would be as significant as the creator.

It would? I've created a lot of things in my life, but I wouldn't say they're all as significant as me.

How significant are you?

You've created. You are a creator. That significance was bestowed by your creation.

Creator and creation create each other.

You are. Your creation is. Both you and your creation are. In that sense equally significant.

“ gib wrote:

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
Creation created God. Creation created the creator. Without creation there is no creator.

Well, now you're reversing the order of events, which makes even less sense.

Creator and creation create each other concurrently.

As creation develops so does creator. The process of making creation is the process of making creator.

The painter becomes the painter as the paintings become the paintings.

“ gib wrote:

“ daniel j lavender wrote:
Creation and creator are, in this sense, on the same level. Creation and creator are.

Yes, creation and creator are, but are they one and the same?

Yes. Being.

“gib wrote:

I suppose you could say a creation makes one into a creator

So you agree.

“gib wrote:

...but not that a creation brings the creator into existence.

Entity is already there. Like a student. The entity becomes creator like a student becomes professor.

Creation makes entity a creator. Creation does not bring entity into existence.

In other words things do not suddenly appear from nothing or from nonexistence. Things develop, things arise from other things, things are created from other things.

“gib wrote:

“daniel j lavender wrote:

Further, God being the creator, God would only be part of existence, existence including both creator and creation. Therefore, existence as a whole would encompass, would exceed God or would encompass and exceed a creator. A creator cannot be without creation. A creator makes creation, a creation makes a creator.

I also take issue with your assertion that creator and creation together exceed either one on their own. Exceed in what sense?

Extent, capacity, power.

However that's not actually what was stated.

I stated “existence as a whole would encompass, would exceed God or would encompass and exceed a creator”.

Existence is not just creator and creation. Existence is destroyer and destruction as well. Existence is every and all.

Existence does exceed creator. Existence does exceed creation. Indeed, existence exceeds both creator and creation.

“gib wrote:

“daniel j lavender wrote:

Creator is creation and creation is creator. Creator and creation are the same. Creator is. Creation is. Creator and creation are. Is what? Are what? Existence. All is existence. All that is existence.

Well, this point makes sense, and I suspect is what you are driving at. Yes, existence would have to be before there even is a creator, and therefore if we're saying creation just is existence (all of existence), then it makes no sense to say the creator comes before the creation. This is the infamous infinite regress of creator and creation. If what you're trying to explain is existence itself, it seems you are caught in a catch-22 of asserting a creator (or creation event) that depends on creation already being there just in order for it to be.

Nothing wrong with saying God created the universe, just so long as “the universe” is not understood as “all of existence”.

All existence is all existence. Creation is only part of existence, the universe is only part of existence.

Hence use of the term “existence” and not “universe”.

Note I am not claiming adherence to nor rejection of Biblical principles. This is merely discussion.

Existence Is Infinite

Lorikeet
Philosopher

Posts: 4427
Joined: Thu Dec 03, 2020 9:08 pm

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Lorikeet » Wed Aug 02, 2023 10:03 am

QUOTE

The creation is the creator's knowledge and understanding projected outward.....

Like art is the artist's representation of reality, or his reaction to reality.

Technologies are the mind's externalization of its knowledge and understanding of how his own body/mind works - represented using a different medium. Like memes extend genes, so too art and technology, all human creations are extensions of man's knowledge and understanding of himself and the world, and how he relates the two.

Abraham's one-god is exactly that: a representation of man's abstraction of himself as an ideal - an idealization of his self-awareness. He orients this absolute one as the mind, projected as an incorporeal otherness. From this mind/body relationship - as absolute immortal good, to a divided multiplicity of corporeal mortal evil - we reach current Transsexualism. Paradise would be the noetic re-turn to a universal mind. In Judaism this representation of if the collective Jewry, idealized as the 'chosen', or the ones they choose to worship above all others - spiritual elitism. Christianity and Islam universalize this collective - like Marxism - setting up the dichotomy of those who willingly belong to the collective - the good - and those who refuse to accept their belonging - the evil.

God is a creation of man, inverted, i.e., nihilism.

Man creates a creator creating him, essentially he wants to engineer himself into the ideal represented by god of the Scriptures: omnipotent, omniscient, omnipresent, absolute good, i.e., all-inclusive. Messianic.

To every man upon this earth

Death cometh soon or late.

And how can man die better

Than facing fearful odds,

For the ashes of his fathers,

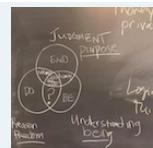

And the temples of his gods

-Thomas Babington Macaulay, Lays of Ancient Rome

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Ichthus77 » Wed Aug 02, 2023 1:14 pm

QUOTE

Ichthus77
ILP Legend

Posts: 12120
Joined: Fri Sep 22, 2006 6:48 pm
Location: limitless limit

Lorikeet
Philosopher

Posts: 4427
Joined: Thu Dec 03, 2020 9:08 pm

genes are meme carriers

just saying

If you make a "machine" that can accurately tell you the entire timeline from beginning to end, you have "made" a "machine" who can lie to you. And how, pray tell, are you going to check their work... output... product?

"The mind of a person plans his way,
But the LORD directs his steps."
- Proverbs 16:9

;^D

Re: Creation Makes Creator

by Lorikeet » Wed Aug 02, 2023 8:12 pm

« QUOTE

Declarations as "arguments"

To every man upon this earth
Death cometh soon or late.
And how can man die better
Than facing fearful odds,
For the ashes of his fathers,
And the temples of his gods

Thomas Babington Macaulay, Lays of Ancient Rome

Display posts from previous: Sort by

Next »

POSTREPLY

27 posts • Page 1 of 2 • 1

« Return to Religion and Spirituality

WHO IS ONLINE

Users browsing this forum: No registered users

Board index

The team • Delete all board cookies • All times are UTC [DST]

Powered by phpBB © 2000, 2002, 2005, 2007 phpBB Group